1. To guide and enhance the skills of the faculty and students in writing manuscripts, funding proposals, and extending consultancies

Beneficiary: Faculty, students, and institutions

Program organizing committee: Dr. Nilesh Mahajan, Dr. Vidya Sabale, Dr. Vinod Thakare, Dr. P.S. Gangane, Mr. Nitin Dumore, Mr. K. R. Danao, Mr. R. A. Gupta

Program outcome: With the growing demand for accreditation, every educational organization is working hard for its upliftment to acquire accreditation from NAAC and NBA. Research outcomes play an important role in accreditation. Many of the shortcomings have been identified in the manuscript and research project proposal or in the submission process that often leads to research being rejected. Generating the consultancies is the most herculean task for any academician due to the lack of research relevance. For the extension of consultancy, one should be outreached and productive in terms of commercially viable products with industrial applicability or viability. This seminar will provide qualitative or quantitative methodologies which will be very much valuable for the faculty members to work on all three attributes and build up their credentials as well as an organization not only to gain recognition but also to help in the process of accreditation.

This seminar was an excellent deliberation of renowned researchers, faculty members, and budding researchers. Total number of 279 delegates attended the seminar with great enthusiasm and lot many takeaways for their future goals.
